The cry of the citizens of Skara Brae has reached our ears and pierced our hearts. The people, our brothers and sisters, our fellow humans, suffer horribly.
Each day they live in terror. Who will be taken next? None can say.
Parents brutally murdered and tortured before their children's eyes. Homes burnt to the ground. The dead lie in the streets without a decent burial.
Blood runs like rivers through the gutters and alleyways.

A scream in the night finds another family taken to work as slaves in dark underground laboratories.
Terror is the order of the day. Fear the only thought at night. At the slightest noise the people cringe in fear. The motion of a shadow the people run and hide. Cluttered together the people huddle in fear of the oppressor.

These crimes rend my heart and fill me with anger. These atrocities MUST not continue. As Co-Sage of Compassion I favor love and peace, but there is a time for war and a time for peace.
Also there is a peace that can only come on the other side of war. If war is the only way to ensure the peace and happiness of the citizen in Skara Brae, then I say fight. Fight to the death if need be.

The cry of those citizens must not remain unanswered. Let it be answered with the call of the trumpet and the clash of arms. There is no cost too great for that goal. Let us act and act quickly. I call on all those who feel Compassion for the poor citizens, all that hear their cry and are pained...join us, and together we will see evil punished.
